D. Commentary

The 5pm ministerial media briefing was led by the Health and Social Care Secretary, Matt Hancock, who explained that the percentage of the UK population testing positive for COVID-19 has been falling consistently over recent weeks, and the R number across the whole of the UK is between 0.7 and 0.9.

The Office for National Statistics survey estimates that the number of new COVID-19 infections is around 5,600 a day - lower than a week ago – although 7,080 remain in hospital. However, this figure is 15% lower than the 8,285 who were in hospital with COVID-19 last week.

Mr Hancock encouraged anyone who has had COVID-19 and is able to give their antibodies to donate their antibodies and help protect someone who is currently in hospital with the virus. The process for donating antibodies is straightforward and arrangements can be made via the NHS Blood and Transplant website.

Mr Hancock announced that the government is issuing new upgraded guidance for all NHS staff in England who will be required to wear Type 1 or Type 2 surgical masks from 15th June 2020. This will apply at all times to staff working in hospitals. In addition to the revised arrangements for NHS staff, all hospital visitors and outpatients will be required to wear face coverings.
